ROME: The Department of Agriculture has announced that this year's crop of grapes for wine is exceedingly large, which promises a lot of good cheap wine in the future. This announcement, coming on the heels of the Health Department's proclamation that wine makes the already sexy Italian male even better, is expected to help the wine industry immensely.

TWO GRAUSTARK GAMES SUSPENDED

As was anticipated in the last issue, a Canadian postal strike began on Monday 20 October. The United States Postal "Service" promptly placed an embargo on mail addressed to Canada. This affects Tom Kissner, playing Russia in 1974IA, and Laurence Gillespie, playing Germany in 1975Q. Their copies of GRAUSTARK #336, were mailed two days before the embargo, and have not come back, so presumably they are now lying in Canadian post offices. As soon as the embargo is lifted, I plan to write them to see if #336 reached them.

In the meantime, play is suspended in these games. The new deadline will be noon of the fourth Saturday after the embargo is lifted, even if that date is not a regular GRAUSTARK publication date.

In 1975Q a retreat is needed for Germany. I'll write the German player about this as soon as the embargo is off.

When asked how the upcoming battle would be decided, Charles replied, "The race always goes to the Fleet," and boarded the HMS Unspeakable for a tour of the Front.

CONSTANTINOPLE (via ST. PETERSBURG): The Great Powers of Germany, Italy, and Turkey announce the signing of the Central European Mutual Offense Treaty at ten o'clock this morning. CMOT will squash Austria-Hungary!

Your days aren't numbered, Dick!

/s/ Bob Sergeant, Doug Dalman, Paul Girsansky

VIENNA (via ST. PETERSBURG): The Emperor of Austria-Hungary is anguished, astounded, astonished, amazed, appalled, and angered at the Tsar of Russia's and the Sultan of Turkey's behavior in the preceding weeks. I suggest the two of you keep out of my internal affairs if you know what's good for you.

BROOKLYN (United Rabble Rousing Presc): Mutinus Nightstand, publishing executive and chairman of URRP, today expressed doubts as to the authenticity of certain despatches purporting to come from various European capitals. "The fact that they were all routed through the Russian capital looks suspicious," he said. "But, whatever the truth of the matter, I feel it is unwise for any European press service to try to match the Austro-Hungarian government in a propaganda war. I've had some dealings with the Austro-Hungarians, and find that their Minister of Propaganda, a gentleman called Firefly or Wagstaff or some such name, is a master of the art."

A group of Canadian science-fiction fans anticipated the current Canadian postal strike (see p. 1) by setting up a mail drop with a friend in Tonawanda, just this side of Niagara Falls. The announcement that they sent out to US correspondents speaks of the "Canadian semi-annual glee 'n' perloo fish fry and gala POSTAL STRIKE". Under his cosmopolitan veneer, Prime Minister Trudeau has developed a streak of habitant stubbornness, and estimates of a six-month strike are now being heard. Stay tuned for further developments, which may include a revival of the Annexation Manifesto.

The number listed under "Points" is the Calhamer point count where only wins and draws are tabulated: Winners receive 1 point; in a draw, the point is divided among the surviving players. The "Averaged Score" is computed by dividing the number of "Points" by the number of "Games Rated", omitting decimals. Winning 1 of 7 games is average with an "Averaged Score" of 143. To insure a meaningful statistical sample, a minimum of seven "Games Rated" is required.

THE GAME EXCHANGE

The following Simulations Publications Games are available in good used condition, with no pieces or other equipment missing: American Civil War, Combined Arms, Frederick the Great, Seelowe, Sixth Fleet, StarForce: Alpha Centauri, and Wolfpack. Each game is $5 plus $1 for postage and packing from the publisher of GRAUSTARK. If you have any games you want to sell, GRAUSTARK will print the information FREE.

WHAT YOU'VE BEEN MISSING

Also published here is EMPIRE, a fortnightly bulletin for the postal play of games other than Diplomacy. Recent issues of EMPIRE have had the following features:

#21 (6 September): Four pages of articles and letters on the new simulation gaming sensation Dungeons & Dragons, plus a review of the Canadian best-seller Ultimatum, which predicts a US-Canadian confrontation over energy policy.

#22 (20 September): The postal rules for SPI's World War II game, an experimental game of which is now in progress in EMPIRE. Also reviews of Garrett Mattingly's Catherine of Aragon and Robert Aron's The Vichy Regime, plus postal games of SPI's Frigate, Legion, and Viking in progress.

#23 (4 October): The revised postal rules for Frigate and for the PRESTAGS games (Pre-Seventeenth Century Tactical Gaming System). All PRESTAGS scenarios from 3000 BCE to 1588 CE are listed in order of their complexity.

#24 (18 October): The Legion scenario of the Battle of Ctesiphon (363) is won, unhistorically, by the Persians (Bill Drakert). Also a review of Mattingly's The Armada, and an announcement of free games of Frigate, Chariot, and Dreadnought.

#25 (1 November): The Viking scenario of the Battle of Civitate (1053) is won by Joe Tysliava's Normans, and a Legion scenario begins at Casilinum (554). Also, Sam Rhine wins two Frigate games (Santa Martha as the Franco-Dutch allies and Cape Fear as the Yanks), and John Symborski tells what it's like to rule Poland in William Guthrie's Imperialism VII game. Articles by the editor explore the claim that Monopoly's designer stole the game from somebody else, and speculate on what will happen to Dungeons & Dragons now that Sex Drive is a part of the characterizations.

#26 (15 November): Play begins at Casilinum, and in the experimental postal World War II game. Also, a new Dreadnought scenario involving the notorious Göben is introduced, and the first shots are exchanged in a Frigate game of Camperdown between Bill Drakert's British and Bob Eisen's Dutch.

In addition, a postal game of Avalon-Hill's Origins of World War II is now under organization in EMPIRE. The entry fee is $5, and entrants should specify which scenario they would like, in order of preference. The game will be played according to the postal rules included with the set, at two-week deadline intervals. The above-mentioned free games remain free only until 31 December (for Frigate and Chariot) and until 31 January (for Dreadnought), so hurry up if you're interested.

1975GW - ADDITIONAL PRESS RELEASE

LONDON: Charles III, King of England, Scotland, and Norway, Prince of Wales, Lord of Ireland & Emperor of India today took his case to be recognized as the legitimate ruler of France to the people.

"I do not understand," intoned the dashingly handsome monarch, "how an enlightened people like the French can allow themselves to be ruled by cormorers, and call upon my fellow Kings of Italy and Germany to help me right this ancient wrong."

When asked by reporters if the private depredations of the French Premier, Mal de Mere, influenced his actions, the Young Hero of London propped his feet on the back of a Norse captive and sighed, "No - a man's sexual leanings should be between himself and his women - and if the Premier of France occasionally extends his favors to little boys, barnyard animals, and dead codfish, far be it from me to criticize."

"I base my feud with the present rulers of France upon something considerably more serious - the deliberate slighting of my third cousin, John the Rotten, at the debutante ball given last year at Brest. As you will remember, John was seated at the 4th position at the second table while Cohan the Trape was seated 2nd position at the same

THE MINISTRY OF MISCELLANY

"Under Nixon, the White House ran things and Haldeman ran the White House. If he said two and two makes five, all the people around knew it was wrong, but some at least would pretend it was right just to ingratiate themselves. Under Ford...nobody seems to care very much if two and two makes four." - Joseph Kraft, New York Post, 13 October 1975.

Mr. Spock's secret is out. Now we know why this character in Star Trek had such a great following, particularly among female viewers.

A program that reaches for both the screamers inside the Wallace rally and the screamers outside? George Wallace doesn't have the faintest idea of how to do this, but George Wallace is an amateur. America can do better, and probably will." - Clark Whelton, Village Voice, 6 April 1972

"Edmund G. Brown Jr. is the 37-year-old Governor of California. He has held office only since last January, and while he has stayed home minding the store, he has achieved an odd kind of national recognition...His latest approval rating is 89%... He (is) crisp and articulate, eloquent and blunt, specific and abstract, perfectly in command of himself. He spoke of sacrifice and discipline and leanness." - Mary McGrory, New York Post, 13 October 1975

Three weeks ago was one of GRAUSTARK's "Bundle Days". Every nine weeks, the last three issues of GRAUSTARK are mailed out by third-class mail in a manila envelope to all readers, except active players. Things were further complicated this time by the fact that 18 October was also a publication date for GRAUSTARK's sister publication EMPIRE. Rallying around to help with "Bundle Day" were Greg Costikyan, Robert Sacks, Bob Lipton, and Ray Heuer. Their assistance was greatly appreciated.

The next "Bundle Day" is the Saturday before Christmas. Help is always welcomed to put GRAUSTARK together on its deadline dates, but it is particularly needed on "Bundle Day".

Remember Sun Myung Moon? After being laughed out of New York City last year, this Korean applicant for the position of Messiah went off to the boondocks and began recouping his strength. He has now set up a number of front organizations, including the Unification Church, the Freedom Leadership Foundation, and the United States Youth Council. They have also set out to infiltrate the American Council for World Freedom, itself just recovering from withdrawal from the World Anti-Communist League after it was taken over by a pack of Nazis from the National Alliance. The NA used to be a Wallace-for-President youth group.

For further details see their irregularly published newspaper Rising Tide, 2025 Eye Street NW, Washington, DC 20006. See also "Sun Myung Moon Is Coming to Town" in GRAUSTARK #317. ("You'd better not sneer, You'd better not laugh, Or black-belted goons Will tear you in half...")
